Food Safety Management: Chapter 2. Management of Safety in the Feed Chain Arnaud Bouxin

Feed safety is a prerequisite for the safety of food of animal origin. Although the approach for the risk management of feed is very similar to food, the feed sector is specific in the sense that it involves a large range of operators and feed ingredients, addresses not only human health aspects due to consumption of animal products but also animal health, animal welfare and also sometimes livestock performance and concerns several animal species with different sensitivity to contaminants. Hazards occurring in feed are either biological (pathogenic microorganisms, prions, etc.), chemical (radionucleides, mycotoxins, heavy metals, dioxins/PCBs, pesticides, etc.) or physical (stone, steel, glass, etc.). Ten years ago Codex developed a Codex Code of Good Practices for Animal Feeding and is working on guidance for prioritizing hazards and for feed safety risk assessment. This is completed in practice by operators by Prerequisite Programs and HACCP-based Feed Safety Assurance Schemes often subject to third party certification.
