You will lose money when you first start trading; that is unavoidable. But will you lose just a little or a lot? The lessons I share in this book cost me almost $50,000, but they'll cost you only the price of a book.

This book has no charts, no trading techniques, no special setups to recognize and no complicated patterns to learn.

It has only one formula.

Instead, what you will find here are the practical, simple - though not necessarily easy - things you need to do to prepare yourself for successful trading.

You'll learn:

- How to pick the right security to trade, and how to avoid the wrong ones
- How to pick a broker and how to avoid the wrong one for you
- How to select your trading software
- How to evaluate your risks and create plans to avoid or mitigate risk
- How to develop your own trading strategy instead of depending on others for it
- How to manage your money both in and out of trades
- How to prepare for taxes and record keeping
- How to think like a trader rather than an investor

Here's what one beginning trader said about "Buy High Sell Low":

"It is worth buying this book for its brutal honesty, its focus on starting from scratch with a realistic voice of reason and not an encyclopedia of technical data. I see the benefit in this book when you state that a lot of the slow, painful, expensive work was not necessary to learn. It gives me practical step-by-step information on how to walk through the routines I need to practice to start gaining experience today."

In "Buy High Sell Low" you will learn expensive lessons on the cheap and thus avoid making the expensive mistakes yourself.
